A Boy Who Loved Cooking

Ahmad was a happy little boy who was six years old.
He had a bright smile and curious eyes.
But most of all, Ahmad loved cooking.

When other kids played with cars or balls, Ahmad loved to play in the kitchen.
He liked spoons, bowls, and colorful plates.
Cooking made Ahmad feel calm and happy.

The Kitchen Is My Happy Place

Every day, Ahmad followed his mom into the kitchen. He watched her cut vegetables and stir the pot.

"What are you making?" Ahmad asked with excitement.

"Food made with love," his mom smiled.

Ahmad smiled too.

The kitchen felt warm and safe.

It felt like home.

Little Hands, Big Heart

Ahmad washed his hands very well.
He stood on a small chair to reach the table.

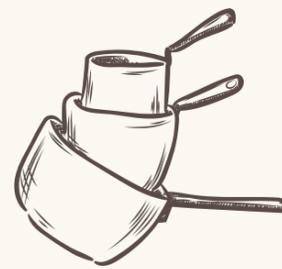

He mixed flour and water.
Sometimes it was messy.
Sometimes it was funny.

But Ahmad never stopped smiling.
He loved learning with his hands.

Mistakes
help us learn.

Learning One Step at a Time

Sometimes Ahmad made mistakes.

The soup was too salty.

The cake was too soft.

Ahmad felt sad.

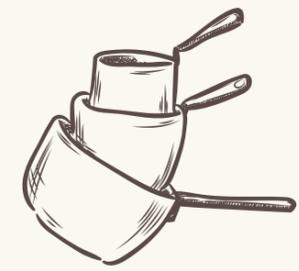

But his mom said,

"That's okay, Ahmad. Mistakes help us learn."

Ahmad nodded.

He tried again.

A Dream Is Born

One night, Ahmad looked at the stars.
He held a spoon like it was magic.

"I want to be a chef one day," he said softly.

His heart beat fast.
It was a big dream for a small boy.

But it felt right.

Mom's Loving Support

Ahmad's mom hugged him tight.

"I believe in you," she said.

"You can be anything you dream of."

Ahmad felt strong.

He felt brave.

When someone believes in you,
your dream feels closer.

Cooking Makes Me Brave

Ahmad helped more in the kitchen.
He learned to cut soft foods carefully.
He learned to clean after cooking.

Cooking taught him patience.
Cooking taught him courage.

Ahmad was growing every day.

Cooking for Love

One day, Ahmad cooked for his family.
It was simple food, but it was made with love.

Everyone smiled.
Everyone said, "Thank you, Ahmad!"

Ahmad felt proud.
His heart felt big and warm.

When Things Are Hard

Some days, Ahmad felt tired.
Some days, he felt slow.

But he remembered his dream.

"I can do this," he whispered.

"I will not give up."

Learning New Things

Ahmad learned about fruits.

Ahmad learned about vegetables.

He learned colors, smells, and tastes.

Cooking helped him learn numbers and shapes too.

Learning was fun when it came from the heart.

A Chef in My Imagination

Ahmad imagined himself in a big kitchen.

He wore a white chef hat.

He cooked for many people.

They smiled and felt happy.

Ahmad smiled too.

Being Kind and Patient

Cooking taught Ahmad to wait.
It taught him to be gentle.

He learned that good food takes time.
And good dreams do too.

Never Stop Believing

Ahmad knew something important now:
Dreams grow when you believe in them.

Even when things are hard,
even when you feel small.

Dreams grow inside brave hearts.
